From the Editors

The traditional garden is the highlight of Domo, a restaurant offering a complete Japanese experience. The old fort-style restaurant is filled with flagstone-covered tables and delicate Japanese artwork. For the ultimate experience insist on sitting on the patio, a tranquil spot that truly transports the diner to Japan with beautiful walkways, bridges and plants.

Domo focuses not on just one type of dish but instead boasts a menu that includes sushi as well as more traditional country-style fare. The country foods that Domo is famed for offer a unique and authentic taste unlike other Japanese food restaurants in the area. The sushi is highly artistic and the entrees are arranged brilliantly while the ingredients are blended imaginatively with the dishes. Be prepared to sample spices and flavors that approach the exotic. The menu contains several Japanese terms; ask your server for suggestions and recommendations. The selection includes meat and seafood dishes made with seaweed and shiitake mushrooms; dishes are served with fresh seasonings alongside little wooden bowls of rice.

Although the tastes are worth the wait, be prepared to do just that -- wait. The staff is very sincere and helpful but don't expect quick delivery on the food. Sip on one of Domo's 15 sakes while dreaming of dining in that exquisite Japanese garden. Or if you please, get a massage in the garden while you wait (5 to 30-minute sessions available). -- Laura Finney
